

The Bertrams. They can turn you on even when you turn them off.

The liveability of a Bertram has been overshadowed by its reputation for racing scotchy through almost anything the sea can throw at a boat.

But, short of a barge-bottomed houseboat, hardly anything that floats has more keep-you-happy living room and luxury than most Bertrams. (We do make one fairly spartan fishing platform.)

Witness the Bahamas, Mecca for gunkholing. Where any eyeball estimate tells you there are twice as many Bertrams as anything else.

The queen Bertram is our 46' yacht, seen nestled at Hawksbill Cay in the Exumas, and in the good company of our 35' convertible and 28' flybridge cruiser at Norman Cay.

A 46' yacht owner can opt for two double beds in his stateroom, or one queen size colossus. He can take a real bath in a real bathtub. And offer six guests nearly as much opulence. And we doubt you've ever seen as huge a galley take up so little space.

The 35' and 28' are just as beautifully space-planned for their size. Very roomy cockpits for fishing, sunning or cocktailing. Exceptionally roomy below, largely because the Bertram planners spend a lot of time at sea themselves instead of playing armchair experts.

Withal, every Bertram from 28' up to our newest 58' yacht comes with a unique ingredient. The name Bertram. The boats that made it very big in the boondocks, where a boat has to hold together or someone goes out of business. That legendary toughness and seakindness is more than a legend. It means great satisfaction and value to you.

But it doesn't hurt that they're enormously comfortable, either.

Go see a Bertram dealer. You won't have to search the boondocks to find him. Or write Bertram Yacht, 3653 N.W. 21st St., Miami, Florida 33142, for a brochure and the name of your nearest dealer.
